Prioritizing User Stories

All User Stories that have a high priority are the user stories that have anything to do with the basic functionality of the web application which mostly has to do with the front end side of things. For example, when communicating with our client it would be easier for us to set a low priority on the email notification user story and just tell our client when demoing the first stage of development "An email would be sent to the student at this point". We are identifying basic functionality as a user being able to sign up, see all courses that are on offer and enrol in a course. Therefore the following User Stories are high priority…

1. As an administrator I want to view, edit and delete courses so that the front-end course list for students is kept up to date.
3. As an administrator I want to view all students so I can manage enrolments and ensure the course isn't overpopulated.
5. As a student I want to be able to see the courses I have previously completed so I can keep track of my journey.

7. As a student I want to view the current courses available so I can register my interest.
9. As a student, I want to be able to search for courses so I can narrow down course results.
11. As a student, during sign up process I must provide my name, contact number, email, Gender and importantly my DOB so I can confirm that I am 18 years or older and I can be easily contacted.
12. As a student, I want the sign up process to be quick and easy so I can sign up without hassles.
13. As a student I want to see my account status so I can tell if I'm a new student or an old student.
17. As an old student, I want to be able to volunteer to become a server, teacher assistant, kitchen hand so I can give back to the community.
19. As a student (old or new), I want to clearly see the duration of the course (3 only for old, 10, 30 days only for old) including the start date before I sign up so that I know how many days I am committing to.

As an administrator I want to view and edit deliveries so the database is consistently up to date.

As a delivery driver, I want to be able to view the packages I need to deliver in a well formatted layout on my phone or tablet so that I do not need to bring a laptop.

As a delivery driver I want to update the status of deliveries so the customer and database is consistently up to date.

As a customer I want to see where my parcel is at all times so I know it has been safely delivered on time.

As a potential customer I want to easily submit a request for my package to be delivered so that I don't have to worry about the on time delivery of my package.

As a business owner, I want to be able to see where my delivery drivers are at any time so that I can ensure the safety of my employees.
